By LARRY ROMANOFF – October 14, 2020

The true origins of the two World Wars form a crucial part of our modern history, the truths of which have been deleted from all our history books and replaced with mythology blaming Germany. This article is a minor attempt to set straight part of the record. From the Introduction to the article 'The Anger Campaign Against China' (which should be read as a companion piece to this article):

"It shouldn't be a secret, though it still seems to be, that neither of the two World Wars were started (or desired) by Germany, but were the creation of a group of European Zionist Jews with the stated intent of the total destruction of Germany. (1) (2) (3) (4) (5) (6) (7) The main purpose of this essay is to demonstrate not only that 'history repeats itself' but that the history being repeated today is a mass grooming of the Western world's people (but most especially Americans) in preparation for World War III – which I believe is now imminent."

For one, it involves the treachery of the Zionist Jews in betraying Germany – which had been a rather happy home for the Jews – and scheming to obtain Palestine in trade for that betrayal. For another, few people seem aware that the Jews openly declared a worldwide war on Germany, well before the Second World War, the economic consequences of which were quite severe. The stated intention, by organising a worldwide boycott of all German goods, was to destroy Germany's economy and starve to death one-third of Germany's population – as punishment for refusing to bow to a Jewish ultimatum to fire Hitler (Germany's Chancellor) and to reinstate all Jews to their former government positions. Jews cannot escape the accusation that they themselves were responsible for the resentment within Germany against their own people.

March 1938 Headline: UK Newspaper Boss Writes that Jewish Influence may Drive Britain into War with Germany

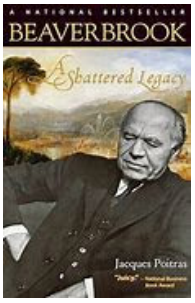
Lord Beaverbrook was the most prominent newspaper magnate in the UK, and his Daily Express was at the time the most widely read newspaper in the world. In a private letter written in 1938, Lord Beaverbrook voiced concern over powerful Jewish influences that were determined to push England into a war with Germany. In that letter, Beaverbrook wrote:



"There are 20,000 German Jews in England – in the professions, pursuing research. They all work against an accommodation with Germany." In a subsequent letter he stated further that "The Jews have got a big position in the press here. . . At last I am shaken. The Jews may drive us into war." (8) (9)

We offer here some quotes from a speech made by Benjamin Freedman, a Jew who was high in the US structure and was personally present at all these events. You can read here his Speech that outlines in much detail the events that led to not only the Balfour Declaration but Germany's defeat in the First War. (10) (11)

Briefly, Germany was offering England a negotiated peace on what the lawyers call a status quo ante basis. That means: "Let's call the war off, and let everything be as it was before the war started." England, in the summer of 1916, had no choice. It was either accept this negotiated peace that Germany was magnanimously offering them, or going on with the war and being totally defeated. (12) (13)

While that was going on, the Zionists in Germany, who represented the Zionists from Eastern Europe, went to the British War Cabinet and said: "Look here. You can yet win this war. You don't have to give up. You don't have to accept the negotiated peace offered to you now by Germany. You can win this war if the United States will come in as your ally." In other words, they made this deal: "We will get the United States into this war as your ally. The price you must pay is Palestine after you have won the war and defeated Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Turkey." Now England had as much right to promise Palestine to anybody, as the United States would have to promise Japan to Ireland for any reason whatsoever.

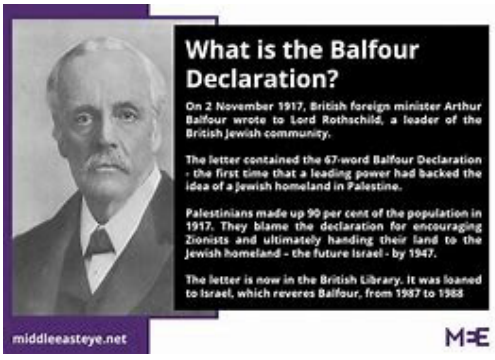
It's absolutely absurd that Great Britain, that never had any connection or any interest or any right in what is known as Palestine should offer it as coin of the realm to pay the Zionists for bringing the United States into the war. However, they did make that promise, in October of 1916. And shortly after that – I don't know how many here remember it – the United States, which was almost totally pro-German, entered the war as Britain's ally.



The Jews at that peace conference, when they were cutting up Germany and parceling out Europe to all these nations who claimed a right to a certain part of European territory, said, "How about Palestine for us?" And they produced, for the first time to the knowledge of the Germans, this Balfour Declaration. So the Germans, for the first time realized why the United States came into the war." The Germans for the first time realized that they had been defeated and suffered the terrific reparations that were slapped onto them, because the Zionists wanted Palestine and were determined to get it at any cost.

Mr. Freedman tells us that "Up to that time, the Jews had never been better off in any country in the world than they had been in Germany", but you can imagine that when the Germans realized what had happened, how they had been set up and betrayed, they naturally resented it. This would be one reason Germans might have felt some antipathy for the Jews. The Jews tried to keep a lid on this fact. They didn't want the world to really understand that they had sold out Germany, and that the Germans resented that. The Germans then took discriminatory action against the Jews, and shunned them. The same way that we would shun the Chinese, or the Negroes, or the Catholics, or anyone in this country who had sold us out to an enemy and brought about our defeat.

After a while, the Jews of the world called a meeting in Amsterdam. Jews from every country in the world attended this meeting in July 1933. And they said to Germany: "You fire Hitler, and you put every Jew back into his former position, whether he was a Communist or no matter what he was. You can't treat us that way. And we, the Jews of the world, are serving an ultimatum upon you." You can imagine what the Germans told them. So what did the Jews do?

- ○ The Jews Declare War on Germany

All the world's Jews declare war on Germany, with mass demonstrations, boycotts and more. It may be one of the biggest secrets of World War II that just before the war began, the leadership of the World Jewish Community formally declared war on Germany. This was above and beyond the ongoing 6-year-long economic boycott launched by the worldwide Jewish community when the Nazi party came to power in 1933. As a consequence of this formal declaration of war, Germany thus deemed Jews to be potential enemy agents. (14)

Chaim Weizmann, who was the president of both the International Jewish Agency and the World Zionist Organisation, and later Israel's first President, told British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain (in a letter later published in the London Times on Sept. 6, 1939:

"I wish to confirm, in the most explicit manner, the declarations which I and my colleagues have made during the last month . . . that the Jews stand behind Great Britain . . .Our urgent desire is to give effect to these declarations (against Germany). . . We are going to starve them into surrender. We are going to use a world-wide boycott against them. That will destroy them because they are dependent upon their export business." (15) (16) (17) (18)

And it is a fact that two thirds of Germany's food supply had to be imported, and it could only be imported with the proceeds of what they exported. So if Germany could not export, two thirds of Germany's population would have to starve. This Jewish boycott of Germany and German goods was so effective that soon no German goods could be found in shops anywhere, given that Jews controlled so much of the importing, wholesale and retail, and also advertising businesses. An executive of the Woolworth Company claimed they had to dump millions of dollars worth of crockery and dishes into the river; that their stores were boycotted if anyone came in and found a dish marked "made in Germany," they were picketed with signs saying "Hitler", "murderer," and so forth.

DAILY NEWS FINAL

40,000 ROAR PROTEST HERE AGAINST HITLER

The Jews organised street protests, in one case involving some 40,000 of them parading in New York, urging everyone to boycott all German goods because the Germans were murderers, cutting the hands off babies, and so on. There is no evidence that any of their claims were true, nor any evidence that up to that point that either Germany or Hitler had persecuted the Jews.

Wikipedia puts a typical spin on this astonishing event: "The Anti-Nazi Boycott of 1933 was a boycott of German products by foreign critics of the Nazi Party in response to 'anti-Semitism' in Nazi Germany." But in fact the boycott began long before German Jews experienced any unpleasantness. In fact, it was their boycott and economic war that finally prompted the backlash.

For his part, Hitler placed the blame for Germany's condition upon a Global conspiracy of Marxists and Capitalists. While FDR was implementing all of the Globalists' economic and foreign policy plans, Hitler was openly defying the architects of The New World Order. The Globalists had lost control of Germany, and wanted their revenge because by this time, Germany's unemployment had dropped from 30% to 5% and was rapidly becoming the strongest economy in Europe. According to Hitler, this global conspiracy, directed by Jewish bankers, engineered Germany's loss of The Great War (World War I), the Russian revolution, the Versailles Treaty, and the resulting hyperinflation that devastated Germany. He accused the elite Marxist Jews of Germany of controlling newspapers and banking, fomenting wars, and corrupting the art, culture and morality of Europe. And it wasn't only Hitler making these allegations; the feelings were the same in all countries where the Jews attempted similar revolutions.

After rising to power, Hitler implemented the following policies:

- Pulled Germany out of the League of Nations
- Banned the Communist Party and arrested its leaders
- Replaced the national Marxist Trade Unions with company unions.
- Established NSDAP as Germany's only political Party
- Refused to make any more reparations payments from the Versailles Treaty/Dawes Plan
- Took control of Germany's Reichsbank away from Warburg/Rothschild bankers and issued German debt-free currency
- Restricted Jewish ownership of radio and newspapers
- Cut taxes and provided tax incentives for mothers to stay at home and raise their children
- Rebuilt German infrastructure and initiated projects like the Autobahn Highway system

A Brief Review of Germany

According to Benjamin Freedman, the Jews had been treated quite well in Germany until immediately prior to the Second World War – which was also true of Austria, by the way – and it was primarily the combined actions by the Jews during the preceding two decades that turned the country – and Hitler – so firmly against them.

To review, it was only at the meetings for the Treaty of Versailles when Germany discovered to its great surprise that it had been betrayed by the Jews and was defeated by the US entry to the war, only because the Zionists had made a deal with England to get Palestine. It would be naive to assume this discovery promoted friendship.

Next, in the aftermath of the war and the impossibility of making reparations payments, Germany's economy crashed with devastating results, including the severe hyperinflation. Germany blamed the Jews in part for its economic distress because prior to the war the economy had been an outstanding success – and would have continued so, if not for the war – which was not Germany's fault. Next, at the crisis point of the economy, many rich Jewish bankers and families took advantage of Germany's plight by buying up a great deal of the economy for pennies. That didn't win many friends either, considering that Germans justifiably blamed the Jews' betrayal for their economic plight.

Then, the Jews presented an ultimatum to Germany to replace Hitler as Chancellor and reinstate all Jews to their former positions in government and elsewhere – or else. It isn't difficult to understand that Germany, like any country would not take kindly to such an ultimatum. When Germany refused to cooperate, the International Jewry organised and forced a worldwide boycott of all German goods in an openly declared attempt to destroy Germany's economy. In fact, the Jews worldwide declared economic war on Germany. Once again, that move would not be expected to earn many friends.

And lastly, Germany and Hitler were not unaware of the events that had transpired in Russia, Hungary, Austria, in Germany itself, with respect to the Jewish Communist Revolutions and the actions of the Bolsheviks once in power. And certainly Germans generally could be expected to be aware of the attack on Christianity and the church, and of Bela Kun's outrageous attempts to destroy the morals and family values in his attempt to "destroy society".

It has been said that in Hitler's mind, the Second war was not only between countries but was a fight to the death between Communism and Christianity. Whatever else Hitler and the Germans may have been, they were still firm Christians and saw Communism as the destruction of every value that country held dear. And, to repeat, most Communists were Jews. From all this, it isn't difficult to understand that a great deal of resentment must have existed against the Jews by the start of World War II. Pipes (1993, 258) links the Holocaust ultimately to the German perception that the Bolshevik revolution was dominated by Jews and was part of a plan for Jewish world supremacy: "The Jewish Holocaust thus turned out to be one of the many unanticipated and unintended consequences of the Russian Revolution." (19) (20) (21)

It's Even Worse than you Might Think – The Lusitania

Edward Mandell House, the US President's Jewish "advisor", believed that if the Germans could be baited into sinking a British ship with Americans on board, the US would be drawn into the war. Unknown to its passengers, the luxury liner Lusitania was being used to ship war munitions to England.

Prior to departure from New York City, the Lusitania was loaded with 600 tons of explosives, 6 million pounds of ammunition, 1,200 cases of shrapnel shells, and about 2,000 passengers. The German Embassy in Washington was made aware of the Lusitania's military cargo and made significant efforts to warn American travelers, embassy officials attempting to place ads in all major US newspapers, ads which were refused by the Jewish-owned media. (22) (23)

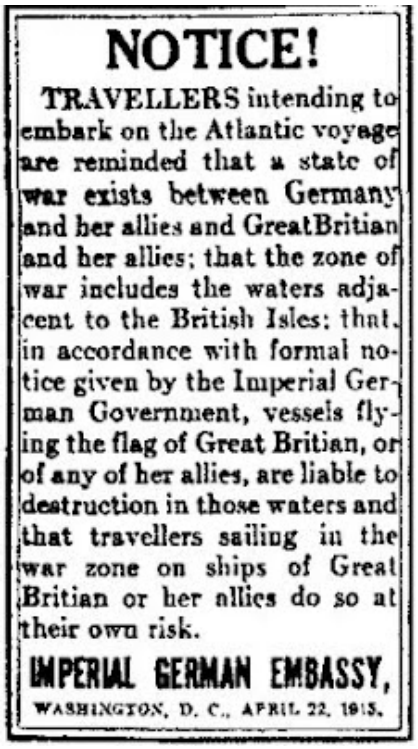
As the Lusitania approached the Irish coast, it was ordered to reduce speed, cease its zigzag defensive course and steam straight ahead – and its military escort vessel, Juno, was ordered to withdraw. (24) Churchill knew German U-Boats were in the vicinity, but purposely slowed the Lusitania and called off the Juno, leaving the Lusitania and many of his own countrymen, as sitting ducks. A German torpedo ignited the munitions, causing a secondary explosion which sank the massive liner in about 15 minutes. About 1200 of its nearly 2,000 passengers were killed. The Jewish media of course took advantage of this to vilify Germany, but made no mention of the illegal munitions which actually sank the Lusitania and Germany's efforts to warn civilians of the danger were totally suppressed.

This wasn't quite the end of the story. After the war, the British and their Jewish collaborators lived in fear the wreckage of the Lusitania might one day be located and the real truth discovered, so the UK military launched a secret expedition to find the remains of the Lusitania and destroy it beyond recognition to prevent the truth from escaping containment. They did locate the wreckage and dropped hundreds of tons of explosives but failed in their attempt. In 2015, Jim Jarrat, a member of the Tritonia Corporation of Glasgow, discovered the location of the Lusitania and during the next several years explored the remains and brought up many items from the wreckage. One of his discoveries was a large number of unexploded munitions surrounding the wreckage, full evidence of the attempted destruction years earlier. Further, his team found lockers labeled "butter" or "cheese" that were still full of munitions being transported by the Lusitania. (25) (26) (27)



NOTICE!

TRAVELLERS intending to embark on the Atlantic voyage are reminded that a state of war exists between Germany and her allies and GreatBritian and her allies; that the zone of war includes the waters adjacent to the British Isles; that, in accordance with formal notice given by the Imperial German Government, vessels flying the flag of Great Britian, or of any of her allies, are liable to destruction in those waters and that travellers sailing in the war zone on ships of Great Britian or her allies do so at their own risk.

IMPERIAL GERMAN EMBASSY,

WASHINGTON, D. C., APRIL 22, 1915.

In summary, the truth of the matter is that the US government deliberately loaded a passenger liner with thousands of tons of munitions and explosives meant for use against Germany, while taking pains to ensure the Germans were aware of this military cargo, and thus making the Lusitania a legal military target. The German government made great efforts to warn Americans to not sail on this ship, but the Jewish-owned media refused to publish the warnings. The US then boarded the vessel with around 2,000 unwitting passengers and sent them deliberately to their death. To ensure this outcome, the captain of the Lusitania was ordered to reduce speed and travel in a straight line very near the coast where German U-boats would be waiting, and further ordered the Lusitania's military escort to withdraw, leaving the ship openly vulnerable to attack and helpless. The sinking of the Lusitania was then used as the pretext for entry into the war.

This was neither the first nor the last time the US government willingly sacrificed the lives of its own citizens and military personnel to obtain justification for a declaration of war that had no justification. The US military destroyed the USS Maine in Havana Harbor, killing hundreds of its own men, as an excuse to blame the Cubans and declare war on Spain. For many decades the official explanation was that the source of the explosion was "unknown", but eventually the truth emerged. The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was essentially the same. The US had complete intelligence on the Japanese fleet and knew precisely its location and the expected time of attack, but refused to warn its base in Pearl Harbor and sacrificed thousands of American lives for the sake of having an excuse to enter World War II on behalf of the Jewish Zionists in Europe. And once again, for many decades the truth was suppressed, but finally today there is undeniable confirmed evidence the US sacrificed thousands of its own citizens as an excuse to declare another war.
